It was in 1968 when M.Khan realised the marble and granite products were fad in India. He noticed the cheap quality marble products produced that time. He understood that industry is not able to produce high grade marble products due to lack of advanced infrastructure and upskilled team. He decided to disrupt the current marble and granite industry with customer centric, high quality marble and granite products.

That was the birth of Royal marble hub, India's one of the premier marble and granite solutions provider.

Since then it has been in the top seat for durable marble and granite products. As of now, royal marble hub is serving customers with 5 manufacturing units in Rajasthan and Karnataka and 3 show rooms in Bangalore, Delhi and Mumbai

Surface Finish

Polished

Polishing involves grinding, sanding and buffing the stone to a high-gloss, mirror like surface. It is done only on crystallized stones such as marble and granites. They are best suited for kitchen and bathroom countertops

Leather Finish

Leather finished stones are less glossy and little to no shine. It gives a textured surface with small pits and fissures. That resembles the surface of a leather.

Honed

Here the surface of the stone has been ground to smooth, flat surface. It makes the surface with little to no reflection and no bumps and ridges. It has small pores and have a natural look. It is ideal for floor and stairs.

Bush Hammered

A bush hammered finish is done by high impact machine or masonry tool to create uniform pits on the surface. This is ideal for wet places as it has high slip resistance.

Flamed Finish

Flamed finish is done by exposing the stone to high temperature flame. This makes the stone to burst and become rough. It is ideal for places that need high slip resistance.

Sand Blasted

Sand Blasted Finishing is done by applying pressurised sand or fine iron materials on to the surface of the stone. This is also good for engraving logos and text on the surface of the stone.

River Washed

River Washed Finish is achieved by exposing the stone to high temperature flame and applying pressurised fine particles other than sand. This is best suited for decorative works.

Lappato Finish

Lappato finish is achieved adding a shiny texture on the on the surface of the stone. It gives a semi-gloss appearance. It is ideal for places that need less light as it is less reflective.
